NZ Company Leads the Way to Secure UK Accreditation

(July 4th 2011. Wellington, New Zealand). Wellington based Project Plus Ltd has become the very first NZ owned organisation to be approved as an 'Accredited Training Organisation' (ATO) by APMG – Australasia. APMG has sole licensing rights to the UK Office of Government and Commerce (OGC) suite of products including PRINCE2.

The ATO status allows Project Plus to offer the PRINCE2 Foundation and Practitioner certifications directly to clients. Project Plus also offers the Managing Successful Programmes (MSP) certification, another OGC product. These certifications are virtually mandated throughout central government sectors on both sides of the Tasman as well as in other Commonwealth countries.

Iain Fraser, Project Plus' CEO, said "This is a very exciting addition to our extensive range of training & certification offerings and is consistent with our growth strategy that will position Project Plus as a premier source of all things project management. We have already responded to demand from our clients, including those in Government, for these new offerings as well as for our 'one-stop-shop' range of services."

Project Plus is a New Zealand head-quartered organisation that's active globally in the provision and delivery of portfolio, programme and project management services across the public, private and corporate sectors. They assist organisations at all levels to gain efficiency and faster realisation of business benefits by having a complete service delivered from a single source.
